Master of Education in Research funded by the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) starting from the 1st of April 2017

Published: 15th November 2016

CERM-ESA objectives and research topics

CERM-ESA is a joint project between the Schools of Education of Moi University, University of Oldenburg, Nelson Mandela Metropolitan University, University of Dar es Salaam and the School of Management Sciences of Uganda Management Institute. The German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) – with the support of the Federal Foreign Office – is funding this programme. CERM-ESA aims to promote and advance educational research, management and teacher education in specific African contexts through its academic, research and staff development programmes.

The CERM-ESA academic programme incorporates 10 scholarships for post-graduate students, which will be granted to successful applicants from East Africa on a Master's level starting in April 2017. The scholarships include a monthly allowance, study fees and travel and research allowances for up to two years (01. April 2017 - 31. March 2019).

Each student will be attached to one of the CERM-ESA research teams that work on the following umbrella topics:

- 1) Educational research methodologies and higher education management in specific African contexts;
- 2) Community schools, leadership and management for social development;
- 3) Science education and education for sustainable development;
- 4) Languages, intercultural communication, indigenous knowledge and arts.

Who can apply?

The CERM-ESA scholarship programme is open for candidates from Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania. All candidates will be enrolled at Moi University (MU) in Kenya, on the 'Masters of Education in Research programme'.
